VANDERBILT SCANDAL.

Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt Seeking Legal Separation.

A PARISIAN BEAUTY THE CAUSE.

The American Millionaire Spent Money Lavishly and Set His Favorits Up to a Princely Establishment—Has Been Sep-marked from His Wife Since Last Spring

New York, Aug. 20.—The published statement that Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt is about to begin separation or divorce proceedings has not, it is alleged, created surprise in circles where the relations of the pair have been known. That they have not lived harmoniously the last two years has been the gossip of fashionable circles for some time. The crisis in their affairs, according to The Commercial Advertiser, was reached immediately after the running of the Grand Prix de Paris, on June 17 inst.

"Mr. Vanuerblit," says the same authority, "won show france on the race, and almost immediately after receiving his winnings was introduced to a woman well known for her beauty and numerous fellowing among the lights in (swelldom This person was Nellie Neustretter. She fercinated the millionaire, and as an evidence of his appreclation of her company Le presented her with the 40,000 francs, sp openly that several intends saw the unusual occurrence and remonstrated with

"The story of how he fitted up a magnificent establishment for her in Paris, and subsequently gave her a residence at Beanville, with servants and every lux ury she desired, is true. It shocked and surprised the American residents of Paris, but Mr. Vanderbilt was so open in his attention as to puzzle everybody. Our of the most surprising things be did was to allow the servants of Nallie Neustretterto wear the same hivery as that word by bies. Vanderblit's servants."

When this news reached Mrs. Vanderbilt she liamediately communicated with ber friends in America and set about to procure a divorce. Mr. Cornelius Vauderbilt went over to Faris bastily to patch up matters, and the story is that he met William K., his brother, with whom he has great influence, and bearing his story secured from him a promise not to make the details of his differences with his wife public. . Mr. Cornelius Vanderbilt also saw Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt and beard her story. He made every effort to bring about a reconciliation, but failed in everything except the stopping of divorce proceedings. It was at this time that Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt began to suffer from nervous prostration During ber illness it is generally understood that she changed her mind about coing to the courts, and was will ing to do anything to avoid the publicity that must follow a suit for divorce.

Colonel and Mrs. Jay, both friends of Mr and Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, then went over, and they are even now trying to effect a reconciliation and save the publicity of a scandal, but are not meeting with exceptional success.

It is the general impression on this side of the water that Mrs. Vanderbilt will not each a divorce, and it is said on excellent awmorely that Mr. Cornelius Vanderblit his a projector from William K. that he will but attenue a proceeding of that nature of his own behalf.

EXECUTION OF A PRIEST.

Abbe Bruneau Beheaded for Robbery, Arson and Murder.

LAVAL, France, Aug. 80.-Abbe Bruneau was executed at 5 o'clock this morning. Bruneau was awake when the officers entered his cell to tell him that it was time to prepare for the execution. When he was dressed the condemned man heard mass and received communion. He prayed the pardon of God and men for any faults he might have committed, and also asked that the clergy might pardon him for breaking his vows of chastity. He then informed the attendants that he was ready. He showed great coolness until he arrived at the foot of the scaffold, when his fortitude seemed to leave him.

An enermous crowd was present, and the neoule cheered when the criminal's head fell into the basket.

Bruneau left a two page letter in which he protested his innocence of the crimes with which he was charged. The condemned man, though a regularit ordained priest, was convicted in July last of murder, arson and robbery.

The order for the execution was not received until 5 o'clock last evening When it became known to the people it caused general rejoicing. A crowd began to gather at the scene of the execution at nightfall, and 2,000 persons had assem-bled by midnight. They surged about the jail singing songs which had the eternally repeated refrain. Eruneau, it is his head we want," and shouting coarse jokeor rearing under the prisoner's cell win-

All the windows everlooking the scene of execution were nighted and crammed with spectators, who beguiled the time in drinking and laughing. The scene was one of riotous and brutal rejoicing, which was continued until the kuife had fallen, when the mob numbered about 8,000.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Aug 50.—Governor Tillman received information last evening that a race riot was imminent at Harly City, a small town in Orangeburg county. He ordered the Santee Rifles, of that county, to put themselves at the disposal of Trial Justice B B. Wetzell. The negroes in that section have formed a combination not to pick cotton for less than fifty cents a hundred for white farmers and forty cents for colored farmers. An old negro who violated this agreement and picked for a white man at forty cents per hundred was taken out of his house by a mob of negroes and se verely beaten. Several negroes were arrested for the crime.

THE DUTCH DEFEATS.

They Are Causing Great Excitement Throughout Holland.

THE LOSS OVER FIVE HUNDRED.

In the Latest Engagement Near Mataram, Capital of the Island of Lombok. the Troops Were Slain from Ambush. Darkness Saved the Survivors.

THE HAGCE, Aug. 30.-Later advices received from Lombok say that the attacks upon the different columns of Dutch troops were the result of a preconcerted plan upon the part of the leading native chiefs of the Balinese natives. Colonel Van Pabet's column, after seeing the promises of the chiefs executed, was returning to Tjakra Negra when it was attacked while fording the River Babak by the Balinese, whose hostility was unexpected. The column only succeeded in regaining the road to Tjakra after sharp fighting and heavy losses.

After a barassing retreat the Van Pabst column was approaching Tjakra Negra without seeing any further signs of the enemy, when suddenly from the walls of that place, from every loophole and every point of vantage, a hallstorm of bullets was poured into the column of Dutch troops. The latter were completely taken by surprise, and began to falter.

To make matters worse the Balinese had no scoper opened fire upon the head of the column than its rear was also exposed to a terrible rifle fire. Thus, the advance and the retreat of the column were alike cut off and impossible. The Dutch troops were completely caught in a rat trap ambush and had it not been that nightfall came to their assistance there is little doubt that the entire deatchment would have been massacred. As it was, under cover of the darkness, a few bodies of exhausted soldlers, many of them badly wounded, succeeded in reaching Ampe-

The Balinese captured a quantity arms, ammunition and provisions in these engagements and also captured the guns and effects of General Van Hun's force, they having been abandoned in order to save the wounded.

The news of the loss sustained by the Dutch forces sent to punish the rajah of Lombok has caused great excitement throughout Holland, and it is believed that when the losses of the Van Pabst and Bylevelt columns are added to those sustained by the Vetter columns, the loss in killed, wounded and missing will be over

It is admitted, even in military circles, that the almost simuitaneous defeat of the three columns of troops is the most severe reverses which the Dutch army has sustained at the hands of savage troops in all the wars ever fought. The are clamoring for the latest from Lombok, and the government is urged to promptly dispatch the strongest reinforcements possible to that Island. The governor general of the Dutch Indies. General Van Der Wijck, has summoned a council of the Lava: and inilitary commanders, who are determining upon the decisive measures to be taken in order to wipe out the defeat of the Dutch troops.

FATAL TENEMENT FIRE

Father and Two Sons Killed and a Fireman Fatally Injured.

NEW YORK, Aug. 80.-Fire was discovered in a six story "sweat shop" at 226 Rive ington street yesterday. Three men lost their lives and a fourth, a fireman, was dangerously injured. The house was occupied solely by sweat shops. The second floor was used as a synagogue, and a portion of the third floor as a Hebrew school for boys. It is claimed that nobody lives in the house, but there were at least eight men in the building when the fire broke out. If they were watchmen, as it is claimed, they did their work badly, for three of their number are dead and a fourth cannot be found. He ran away when the alarm was sounded. The names of the three who perished by fire were: Mercio Levine, aged 58, and his two sons, Joseph, aged 18, and Elias, aged 16.

The flames started in the tailor shop of Fabrious Levine. Soon after the fire began Levine's watchman, Herman Egerson, was climbing down the fire escape. When he got to the first floor he jumped to the ground. He was followed by three others, who came from different floors.

It was supposed that everybody was out of the building, but Joseph Levine appeared on a flame enveloped fire escape of the fifth floor Fireman Timothy Collins attempted to rescue him. He had gone up the ladder but a few rounds when the boy climbed over the escape and dropped squarely on the shoulders of Col-Down both went to the pavement. The boy was killed by the fail. The fireman was unconscious and injured interpally. He will probably die.

After the fire was subdued the bodies of Mercio and Elias Levine were found on a tailor's tench in the shop of Joseph Shack.

While this fire was in progress another fire, supposed to be of incendiary origin, destroyed the "double decker" teneniest at 21 Goerck street, causing $17,000 loss.

THE CIVIL SERVICE.

An Interesting Interview with Commissioner Roosevelt.

OPPOSING SOLICITATION BY MAIL

The Commissioner Says the Decision of the Attorney General Will be Productive of Great Harm Unless Reversed by Special Legislation.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—Civil Service Commissioner Roosevelt, in an interesting interview on civil service, said that the commission is now on a far better footing than ever before for efficient work. This was due to the fact that the commission, under legislation pushed by Senator Lodge, of Massachusetts, and Senator Cockrell, of Missouri, hereafter would have its own force of clerks, instead of being dependent on clerks detailed to it by the several government departments.

"As a consequence," said Mr. Rooseveit, "our list of details was never full, and of those we had some of them were poor, and those who were good wished to get back to their own offices, so that they might be in line for promotion. We now have our own force, and I will guarantee that within three months there will be no force, either of any bureau in the government service or of any private persons, -more efficient than ours."

The civil service commissioner next denounced the Bynum bill for the reinstatement of the Democratic railway mail clerks dismissed prior to the classification of the railway mail service under the civil service system in 1889 as a thoroughly vicious partisan measure, saying: "If it should become a law it would be a precedent for the enactment of similar measures whenever a change of administration took place. It is introduced purely in the interest of the spoilsmonger, and is a thoroughly vicious bill in every way. "I wish to call astention to the recent decision of the attorney general, which permits solicitation for political purposes by letter in government buildings. If this opinion holds the commission must immediately request the passage of a law to prohibit such solicitation. The commission has always insisted that solicitation for political purposes was illegal, whether done in person or by letter, in a government. It was owing to this interpretation that we were able to very nearly break up the practice during the last presidential campaign, and as the aftermath of that campaign we have procured the conviction of two government officials, one a postmaster in Ohio and the other a deputy internal revenue officer of Kentucky, but we have never had a case tried in the courts where the accusation was that the solicitation was by letter. 5863 "Nine-tenths of the good done by the laws will vanish if solicitation by letter is allowed, and although the commission will of course do all it can to protect ernployes if they are molested in any way for refusing to contribute it is imperative that we should be given power to prosecute any attempt at political assessment in a government building, by letter or otherwise. The statute is so broad, inasmuch as it prohibits any person from soliciting in any manner whatsoever in a government building, that we have taken it for granted that it must mean by letter, and that, we know, was the meaning of the gentleman, both in congress and out, who saw to the passage of the bill." The commissioner expressed the hope that there would be a great extension of the classified service, and that there would be a great reduction in the number of places now excepted, on one theory or another, from the operation of the civil service rules, including not only the departments, but the postoffices and custom houses throughout the country, and in this connection be called attention to sev eral instances in which old and efficient employes had been gotten rid of by indirect methods. The commission, he thought, should have power to interfere in these cases of removals, and to require that reasons for dismissals be given in full and in writing. _ To Test the New Tariff Law.

IN THE BERRY PATCH

THOSE WHO PASS ITS BOUNDARIES MUST "DRESS ACCORDIN."

In Some Localities It Is Necessary to Watch Out For Snakes-It Is Not Always the Best Looking Berriers Who Gather Wost

Ever go blackberrying? No: Then you have missed one of the most enlivening experiences of life. Everybody who lived in the village called "Tae Hook" or anywhere in its neighborhood 20 years ago used to go blackberrying at this season of the year, and the descendants of those who lived there then are probably, many of them, picking blackberries at this moment-that is, if you are reading in the daytime and on a weekday-from the thorny bushes that grow in the half cleared, uncultivated tracts to be found on the slopes of the hills east and west of the village and in the narrow shallow vallevs beyond the brows of those hills and a mile or two away.

"The Hookers," as the inhabitants of that blessed village used to be called, were wont to go to the berry fields in parties, sometimes by families, but oftener in groups of friends. They always used to 'dress accordin' when their mission was the gathering of blackberries, and any one who was foolish enough to join a berrying party without being properly attired was certain to be laughed out of court, so to speak. The code of dress for a berrying party was quite as rigid as is that for a social function at Newport or Narragansett.

Not that it was necessary for the men to wear coat- and trousers of any particular cut or for the women and girls to study the latest Paris modes. Bless you, not A party of berry pickers properly dressed for their work would afford the student of extraordinary human attire an opportunity for interesting and profitable contemplation. First of all. ever one, men and women alike, wore high cowhide boots. Naturally in most cases the women borrowed their boots from their husbands, from their fathers or their brothers. Why did they all wear boets? Snakes, for the berry fields in the vicinity of "The Hook" were rocky, and in the interstices between the rocks rattlesnakes and copperheads and perhaps some other varieties of venomous reptiles had their homes. The snakes were not very numerous, according to a "Hooker's" idea of things, but they were highly disagreeable at close quarters. Still a right watchful berry picker need have no reasonable fear, providing he or she wore high boots.

The rule for the remainder of the berry pickers' costume was exceedingly simple. It was to wear your oldest, most worthle-s, raggedest garments. Accordingly a group of berry pickers presented about as comely an appearance as would a detachment of Coxey's celebrated commonwealers, then unknown to history. Where some of the men and boys got their outlandish old coats and jackets and to what forgotten era of the evolution of dress the garments of the women belonged it would be hard to tell.

It goes without saying that some of the mascuine I my pickers who, when attired in their Sunday go to meetings, looked spruce and mainly enough presented a very compointing appearance when rigged out for "berryin." On the other hand, there were stalwart young fellows who seemed to need the uncouth garments that were suited to the berry patch to bring out all their good points. It is perhaps unnecessary to say that not often did any of the oldr men join the berrying parties.

As to the women, they declared themselves that they looked like "perfect frights" as far as dress went. But who ever knew a pair of bright eyes to be essentially dimmed because they were shaded by a flapping old fashioned gingham sunbonnet, or a lithe, well rounded figure to lose its grace because the fect were incased in boots, the skirts were short and the waist ill fitting? Certainly none of these things happened to "The Hook" beauties when they were dressed out for herrying-that is, if the opinions held by "The Hook" beaux were correct, and they probably were.

Berrying parties from "The Hook" used to leave the village by daybreak, if they could, and get to the brow of the hill in time to see the sun rise, not that P-e-a-r-1-i-n-e.

WILSON TALKS.

R Y Name is Wilson; I do an insurance business on LaSalle street, in Chicago Ill., and I live in Evanston, Ill. Evanston is what was originally a scattering population on a pretty point on Lake Michigan, esteemed years ago far from the city of Chicago, but now one of the varied towns which may go within it by vote of the population.

I am married and have a wife and one child. That child is a boy (I suppose I should feel the same solicitude if it was a girl), and I have a father's natural funcies as to what must be the best thing to give that child the right kind of intelligence, and so divert his course that he may succeed in life. I have studied a great deal upon the subject. My own experience would not be of great value, because I have succeeded only to the limit of the average man and am barely established; still, I own the house and lot upon which I live, and am feeling perfectly safe in meeting own the house and lot upon which I live, and am feeling perfectly safe in meeting the exigencies of the year. I want the boy to take a broader view than I did, to be a bigger man in the world. I have studied how to teach him to do that, and he has done pretty well, as far as the preliminaries go. Now, I have thought over what I should say to him and have sometimes been puzzled. I could not very well tell him what I doo. I wanted to tell him what I needed but what I did not learn myself when I was of his age, and what my father did not know how to tell me, or else was not thoughtful enough to do so. I wanted to tell him how to follow the example of those who have succeeded at the present time and under the circumstances which of those who have succeeded at the present time and under the circumstances which ordinarily affect a young man struggling in this Republic established on this comparatively new world to-day. I wanted to tell him just what he had better do to get along well, and to point out to him what had been done by the people who were successful at the present time.

Of course, the record of the people of any time past would not be of so much value, because circumstances must necessarily have been different when they were alive. I feel confident, though, that if I could learn, some way and somehow, what the people who are so successful to day have done and how they did it, I could give to my boy such advice as would make his own life at least as far removed from fail-to my boy such advice as would make his own life at least as far removed from latiure as justified by the natural ability he may possess,

I looked around for some authority which I might consult in order to give him the facts most essential with this idea of mine in mind, but I could find no e until I discovered that a great publishing firm in Chicago had decided to bring out a book giving the photographs of all the people who are prominent in America to-day. Here was what I wanted. The book, as I have learned, is going to be published in 16 parts, 16 pages to each, with a recent photograph on each page of some active leading American man or woman of to-day, while underneath appears the story of that same person's hie—the story telling what that person did, and how the ends attained were eventually accomplished. Here was what I wanted; here was what I needed in various ways; here was what I was certainly seeking in order to obtain the information with which to educate my boy ank secure for him that knowledge which will give him a source of thought and make him prominent in the world.

I have the first sheets of this work. It is a graphic story of America's Greatest Men and Women, told in each instance on a single page underneath a photograph of recent date, which conveys to the eye an idea of what that person is. To me the photograph tells even more than the suggestive record beneath; and yet it is odd how in each instance the correct story corresponds with the expression upon the face which is reproduced in the portrait above. I do not know how the series will end. I know very little about this new feature of the newspaper people; I know nothing about the publishers and their expectations, but I do know this: that if the series so begun should be continued to its practical, ordinary good sense end—and I don't care whether that will include 200 or 700 of America's Greatest Men and Women, which is the title of the book—I do know this, that for the ordinary, active and alert business man—I will certainly say far more for the student or the literary man, or the politician or the statesman—for all these I will say it will be simply the most valuable and the most remarkable book produced in modern history. The wonder is that some one has not thought of it before. Yet no one seems to have done so since the days of Plutarch. Plutarch knew something. That shrewd old fellow knew that all who would get out of the drift, all who would accomplish great things, wanted to know every detail of the lives of those who had better luck or more courage or a broader brain than their fellows; but I am no authority on these points. I only know that there is produced a second Plutarch's Lives, that its nothing about the publishers and their expectations, but I do know this: that if the these points. I only know that there is produced a second Plutarch's Lives, that its biographies are shrewd, graphic and curt, and written without bias and without prejudice. I only know that there was a Pintarch—God bless the old fellow—and that there is this modern work.

This is the work I am going to give to my boy. I am going to make him read it thoroughly. The work is announced as consisting of 16 Parts, with 16 pages and 16 photographs in each part, and when bound, the whole series will make a great volume. ume of 256 pages, the like of which has never been equaled. It is the story of the personal character of the men and women who are making the nation's history at this particular time. What a work this is! Do you imagine that I would miss it for my boy, or, incidentally, for myself?

IN EVERY ISSUE OF THE ARGUS AND MERCURY will appear a numbered coupon. Cut this coupon out and bring or forward it, together with TEN CENTS, to the Coupon Department of the ARGUS and MERCURY and there will be delivered or mailed to you one number of the series as above. very many "Hookers" cared much about seeing, the god of day when he first peeped over the edge of the beautiful rolling landscape that lay spread out about the little village, though there were a few whose eyes used to light up at sight of the beautiful colors used by Sol used in painting the clouds. But it had grown to be a sort of superstition there that whose going berrying was not enterprising enough to be well on the way to the fields by surrise was not likely to be rewarded by a good day's picking, and it did not matter one whit to those who held to this idea that occasionally those who reached the field last filled their pails first. There were several kinds of berry pickers among the "Hookers" of other days. Some there were who picked berries as they performed their regular work, for the sake of getting everything in sight. These individuals were not all of them stalwart among the young men nor star eyed and cherry lipped among the young women. Indeed truth compelme to say that the best berriers were usually the plainest looking ones. They seemed to have a sort of instinctive knowledge of just where the biggest clumps of the most productive bushes were to be found, and their fingers seemed to be so constructed that they could lick berries with at least five times the speed attainable by their companions. It was not at all uncommon, for instance, for ugly old Solomon Sykes, about the only gray headed man who used to go berrying, to fill all the pails and baskets he had brought with him and all he could borrrow from lazier, less enthusiastic pickers before noon. Then he would be around on the rocks in the sun, chewing tobacco and guying those who had frittered away the early part of the day and whose pails and baskets were only partly filled. There was another expert at picking berries whose fame had been spread abroad through all the neighboring towns. It the good old soul-she was a good old soul, despite her acrid words and her vinegar vi-age—is still alive, she is no doubt today filling a 16 quart tin pail while the pretty young girls of the same party are bothered to find enough berries to cover the bottoms of their little baskets. She was Matilda Ann Stoughton, a single woman of 50 when I knew her-"single by the mercy of heaven," she used to say; "a sour old maid," some of her neighbors said. They changed their opinions of her the year that diph heria visited the village, and "Tildy Ann" developed into the kindest, most untiring, most efficient nurse in the entire settlement. After that she gradually became to be known as "Aunt Matilda" by everybody in "The Hook," and to be treated by every one, too, with a consideration and a homely courtesy that were almost tender. After that, too, she was herself far less angular in her manners, less bit ter in her conversation and less exacting in her judgment of her neighbors.

But I am straying from the subject. The reader should not imagine for a moment that the two of whom I have spoken were the only expert berriers. There were many such, and one of them was the prettiest girl in the village. Whoever would pay court to her at berrying time must pick berries, too, and pick them fast, and it thus fell out that several of the village beaux became exceedingly nimble fingered. There were those who said that her pail was filled more times than those of the other girls because of the help she had from these young men. This coming to her ears one year she became extremely indignant and insisted on being accompanied only by a number of her female friends, leaving her male admirers disconsolate. Right well did she then exemplify her right to the title of "champion berry picker of The Hook." There was a romance in the berry field that year. I have forgotten the details, but she was its herome, and two of the village young men figured prominently therein. A berry picking contest between these boys was also a feature, but whether she was the prize won by the victor I have forgotten. I remember clearly that the match was carried on with great formality and in the presence of a number of judges.

While those who went out to pick berries were diligently filling the receptacles with the luscious sloe black fruit of the bushes the housewives of the village were enveloped in the cares of preserving and pickling and canning and "doing up" berries generally, and great was the excitement thereof and heavy were the village grocers' sales of sugar. Nor were blackberries the only ones gathered near "The Hook." When I began to write I intended to say something about huckleberries and raspberries and a great variety of other berries; but, see, I have not half finished with blackberrying yet, and the space is I. D. MARSHALL.

Heat Ten Miles Above Ground. Additional evidence on the subject of the supposed heat from the sun's rays is furnished by an experiment recently reported in France. A balloon with registering instruments was sent up a distance of 10 miles above the earth's surface, where the temperature registered was found to be 104 degrees F.

ALIVE, BUT PRONOUNCED DEAD.

Restoration of the Speech of a Mute Child Who Was Once Prepared For the Grave.

After being mute for two years the little 7-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Brock of Vineland, through seeing the blood flowing from a cut on one of her fingers, suddenly regained her speech. The case is a remarkable one and has excited the interest of physicians and of those who are acquainted with the circumstances of her affliction and most remarkable recovery.

Two years ago the little girl, who was then 5 years of age, suddenly lost her power of speech. She was eating an apple at the time and in some manner dislocated one of her teeth. She ran into the house and threw herself on the lounge, with blood flowing from her mouth. She refused to answer any questions, and the inquiries of her astonished parents only elicited sobs and moans.

The next day the child was still mute and also refused to partake of any food. Her parents became alarmed, and physicians were called in. They were unable to diagnove the strange malady, and the child grew worse. Medical skill was of no avail, and she grew weak and emaciated. After several weeks the child died apparently, and the doctors pronounced her dead and left. The little form was covered with a shroud and preparations for the funeral begun, when signs of life were discovered in the seeming corp-e.

The girl sat up and with her fingers made signs indicative of her desire for food. From that moment she began to mend slowly and in the course of a year regained her former good health and spirits. She was still, however, as silent as a sphing. Nothing could induce her to atter a word, and the continued in this condition until a short time ago. She accidentally cut her finger while playing one day, and the red blood flowed from the wound. Either the sight or the smell of the fluid seemed to have a strange effect upon the child, and that day marked the turning point in the history of the case. During that same night, while in bed, she startled her sister by speaking her name quite distinctly. She also uttered several other words very plainly. Since then she has been improving daily and now can articulate quite plainly.—Philadelphia

Spirit of Paternalism Manifested by the London County Conneil.

England is trying all sorts of socialistic experiments. If it keeps on, it will soon become Mr. Bellamy's ideal coun-

The latest manifestation of the paternal spirit in government is the proposition, now seriously entertained by the London cornty council, to open municipal pawnshops for the purpose of lending small sums to poor people on pledges of personal property at small rates of

The London pawnbrokers are up in arms against the proposition. Of course they cannot go on charging 69 or 100 per cent, as they are now said to do, if the city pawnshop will loan money at 5 or 4 per cent.

And the London Chronicle wants to know why, if the state undertakes to do banking for the rich man, it should not do it also for the poor man.

The idea of making governments generally useful and using their powers to break down chous and oppressive monopolies by exposing them to an unequal competition is gaining ground everywite-

The New Lulistment Law. What is called the Outhwaite law has been signed by the president, making some important change in the conditions of enlistment in the Unite I States army. Hereafter no ale n can be en listed to become a soldier of the United States. The recruit must be a native American or have taken out full citizenship papers. The term of enli-tment henceforth is two years, and there is no provision, as at present, for "buying out" before the term of enlistment has expired. The provision of the present law that no soldher shall resenlist after 10 years' service is repealed. The soldier noust stay two years, and he may stay thereafter until retired under the veteran act. - Kansas City Star.

Fall of the Man With Wings.

Herr Lilienthal has for several weeks been making attempts at flying from a little hell artificially thrown up for the purpose near Gross Lichterfelde, in the neighborhood of Bernin. This enterprising engineer mounted the hill with two immense wings fastined to his shoulders. Then, half running, half flying, he attempted the descent, but trequently his wings sank helpless when half way down, and he never succeeded in reaching the feet. One day, however, the wings bore the experimenter a little farther, but only to let him fall into a neighboring pond. His wings were broken and he himself wounded, but he will probably renew his attempts.-London Star.

The Sussex R gister says: "Tariff reform means a lopping off of all the luxuries that American workingmen were wont to supply themselves with," What rot,-no offense neighbor. Why surely you can know nothing about how the American people lived and thrived in days before the sixtles. In days before the sixties, when there was work at good wages all the year round for every working man and the genus tramp was unknown. In days before the sixties, when farms were unmortgaged and farmers always had money to loan and for investment. In days before the sixties when there were no monopolists, no multi-millionaires, no anarchists; when all the American people were prosperous; when American times were idealistic, and envied of all the rest of mankind. OUR FIREMEN ABROAD.

Excelsiors and McQuoids at Binghamton-An Evening Parade While En Route.

Middletown's firemen when they go abroad are always sure of a hearty welcome, and especially so at Binghamton, where the earth is theirs if they will accept it. Excelsiors have been at Binghamton once before this, and had a right to expect a welcome with a great big "W;" McQuoids had heard of the Parlor City's fame for hospitality, and besides had met and entertaiced a Binghamton company, the Mechanics, and knew the manner of men who were to play the part of hosts to them on the occasion of their visit this year.

Therefore, both Excelsiors and Mc-Quoids had high anticipations and it is no uncertain compliment to Binghamton firemen and citizens to say that their expectations were more than realized on their arrival last evening,

ON THE ROAD.

The Middletown party got along without mishap of any kind until L vingston Manor was reached. when there was a short delay on account of a hot box, which necessitated the procuring of a new engine.

AN EVENING PARADE AT SIDNEY. When Sidney was reached the c mpanies had to transfer to the D. & H. road, and the time between trains was spent in giving a street parade. of which the citizens showed their hearty appreciation ARRIVAL AT BINGHAMTON.

Binghamten was reached at 7:30, and thanks to the generosity of Mr. William Seeholzer, of the Wickham avenue restaurant, no one was hunmry or thirsty, for his supply of milk, sandwiches, etc., was ample and distributed with a liberal hand.

AN EVENING PARADE.

The visiting firemen were met at the depot by the Excelsiors and $\, {f M}{f e}$ chanics of Binghamton, and an evening parade, the first ever held in that city, was given, the houses along the line of march being brilliantly illuminated, and the visiting companies being repeatedly cheered. After the parade the McQuoids were banqueted at the Exchange Hotel, where the Mayor delivered an address of welcome, to which Mayor Stansbury, of this city, responded. Speeches were also made by other Binghamton officials and by Recorder Bradner, Rev. Father Lenes and Dr. T. S. Gillson, of this city.

The parade took place, to-day, and was an imposing spectacle. There were over 1,200 men in line and the city was lavishly decorated.

THE STATE ASSESSORS' MEETING.

strong Probabilities that Orange County's Valuation Will be Raised. Supervisors Iseman and Brazee. who went to Newburgh, yesterday, to meet the State Assessors, as Middletown's representatives, were questioned very closely as to the values of certain residence and business properties in the city, as were also supervisors and assessors from other towns in the county.

It is the impression of the Middletown gentlemen, and in fact, it is noderstood to have been quietly given out by one of the State Assessors, that Orange county must pay a large proportion of the State's taxes.

It cannot be helped, however, if as a result of the assessors visit, our county's taxes will be increased as they are supreme. It is simply one of the results of having a reputation for wealth and greatness, and as a land flowing with milk and honey.

Interesting Contests, Yesterday—A Runaway Pacer-A Briver Who Was Too Sure of a Heat Fined and Disbarred-To-day's Events-The Card for To. morrow.

The races, yesterday, afforded fine sport, six heats being necessary to decide the pacing race, while variety was added to the entertainment by a runaway in that race and a shocking error in judgment on the part of Conklin, the driver of Chara C., in the colt race, which lost him a heat that he had in hand and resulted in the judges flaing him and ruting him off

THE PACING RACE.

This race was any horse's race until the finai heat was trotted. In the fourth heat, part of Van Cott's harness broke, letting the shafts fly up and throwing the driver, McKeever, out opposite the Go shen News Office. The sulky righted again and the horse kept on in a dead ruo, taking the pole from the leader and coming in first. The horse kept running around the track until it ned made two and a quarter miles before it slacked up. Neither the horse nor driver was injured.

FOUR YEAR OLD COLT RACE. There were but three starters in the four-year-old coit race, Flora J., Riplet and Clara C.

In the first heat, Clara C. easily outfooted the other horses and had the heat, "won by a mile" when her driver, Conklin, pulled up so as not to distance the others and to save a record, and had his horse almost to a walk when Platt, calling on Riplet, came up with such a rush that he dashed past Clara C. before her astonished driver realized what was happening and won the heat by a

Then the wrath of the judges descended on the unhappy Conklin. They fined him $25 and disqualified him from driving on all tracks of the National Association. They also declared all pools off. Their action met with the approval of the crowd who shouted their satisfaction.

In the second heat "Bud" Murray was put in behind Clara C., but he could not handle her at all and ran a good part of the mile to save being distanced, but he was ruled out by the judges.

The summary:

STRANGE ACCIDENT TO A HORSE.

Frightened at a Telephone Lineman, It Breaks Its Halter Strap and Slips Into a Sewer Basin.

The driver of Mr. J. W. Sloat's delivery wagon tied his horse to a trolley pole at the corner of North and Depot streets, this morning. Within a foot of the trolley pole is the main pole of the telephone company, and a lineman was at work at the top of it. As he came down he did not see the horse, and the latter becoming frightened jerked at its halter strap, flually falling down, both hind legs slipping into the opening of the sewer basin at the corner. The horse was extricated with great difficulty and both legs were badly cut.

SHE'LL MARRY ME.

Ah, life looks very bright to me Since I have heard her say. With sweet becoming modesty. She'll marry me some day.

If I will give up smoking: If I wil go to church;
If I cut the club and leave My best friends in the lurch: If I will never stay out late, But hasten home at 9: If I will let her have her wav-She's promised to be mine!

If I will move to Kensington And never touch a card; If I will buckle down to work And labor long and hard To buy her stylish bonnets And gowns and lots of gloves, Then I may be that happy man, The lucky man she loves.

If I'll be always pleasant And never, never sceld.

And never make her nace ma And not grow cross and old, And always stay good looking-She can't stand ugly men-If I come up to her ideal, Why, we'll be married then!

That's why I am so happy And why I often seem Unconscious and abstracted-I'm living in a dream: She is so sweet and pretty, And so unselfish too!

I wonder how I won her love— I can't believe it's true!

MY FIANCEE.

I had been telegraphic operator at "B station" some six or eight months and had held communication of a purely business character only with the operator at "D" when there came a change. Death slichtly removed the old man who had been in charge there for so long, and a new operator was in-

A message spun along the line one February morning in this wise: "Good morning, B." I responded:

"Good morning, D." Then came the information. "The old man died last night, and I have taken his place."

"What is your name?" I asked. "Nellie Morton. What is yours?" Δ spirit of devilty prompted my reply:

"Ned Clayborn." "Thank you." was the concise respense. Then a message in real earnest came along the lines, and we were obliged to attend to business. Every day I hade my unscen acquaintance "Good morning" and never closed up as night with far a farewell message. A swinge of conscience racked me at times, and a 'still, small voice" whispered its warning, but the temptation was 700 great, and it was not long before I was sending sly messages, containing a good deal "atween the lines," to the unseem Nellie. The replies to these messages were guarded, but hopeful, and Egrew bolder. It was no end-of fun.

She told me her history. She had run away from home because her parents insisted upon marrying her to a man she detested (and the last word came clicking viciously from my end of the line). She would never marry himnever. I advised by r not to and hinted at an affection deeper and truer than any the presuming "detested fellow" could offer. Well, the outcome of it was that I asked the unseen Nellie to be my wife and even described the little home that was lone some by awaiting her coming. I was floundering in deep water and could but trust to a kind Providence to pull me out. My "fun" was become ng de al carnest. How I wished the wineastretelying between us were telephonic, instead of telegrapme, that I could terchan o hear some exclamation or gain some taken of how my message was received. But this was not to be, and I had to possess my soul in jutience. That virtue was almost exhausted when the well known call toll upon say cars. I flew to the instrument. It was concise and not very complimentary, "Rather than marry that brute I will risk tt." I was in for it now and must perforce flounder still deeper by sending rapture ous messages over the wires. I, Deliz Brown, was engaged to be married to a young lady I had never seen. This was forcing the question of woman's rights.

I carried the "fun" on for ever three [程 months, and every day it grow decidedly less "runny," until I began to brood over the predicament into which I had giddily led my feet. The time was rapidly approaching when I would have to claim the bride I had won in this novel and romantic manner, and my blood ran cold at the thought of how easy it would be for her to learn of my perficy, and from all I had seen of her temper I felt sure she would not deal lightly with any one who would dare to play tricks upon her.

At last I could bear it no longer, and one day, just three weeks before I was to travel to "D" and claim my bride, I boarded the train with altogether another motive. It was to "kiss and make up" after I had begged her with tears to fergive me, etc.

I found a little house, with a little sign in blue and white swinging in the breeze, similar to the little house and the little sign at "B." It was occupied at the time by a young man reading a paper. I looked at him without speaking, and he returned the compliment in

"I wish to see Mes Nellie Merton," I said, and as he did not speak I went on to explain. "I am the operator at B' and have an important message, which must be delivered to her at once. A moment's delay means"- I pansed for a word, and no spoke for the first

His cooleess nearly distracted me. "I must see her!" I exclaimed excit

"But you cannot," he said coolly. "I have strict orders not to let any one know her whereabouts for a day or two until these extensive preparations are well under way. "

I was on the verge of tears, and with a choke in my voice I cried out, sinking into a chair and holding up my hands deprecatingly:

"Don't say another word. You will set me wild. If you will not tell me where to find Nellie," I went on in desperation, "will you please tell her this _I have been a bad, wicked girl, and_ and-and-there is no such person as Ned Clayborn? It started in fun, andand-and-please let me go to her She will understand me so much better than you can explain it."

"No such person as Ned Chayborn! My dear young lady, I must beg leave to differ with you. That is the name of the young man who in three short weeks is to marry Miss Merton. Surely he is not dead?" he added in consternation.

"Oh, will you not understand? If was all a joke at first. I thought it would be great fun, and so I-well, I am Ned Clayborn, and after a time we becammengaged-all in fun, too." Here I laughed hasterically. 'I tried to stop, but I was so wicked I could not, and now poor Nellie will break her heart, and-and-and"- And I broke down and began to cry in a miserable way.

Unlike most men, my companion was not in the least disconcerted at sight of my tears, but simply laughed, load and

Presently the laughter ceased. Then I heard uneasy movements in the chair occupied by my companion. Then be got up and paced about restlessly. Pretty soon a light touch fell upon my arm, and his voice very gentle and kind, said, "Nellie is here to receive your confession and forgiveness." I dried my eyes and looked up, but saw no one bur the tall young nan, who was looking at me very carnestly. "Where is she?" I asked, ready to

"Here." he said, holding out his nand. Instinctively I put mine into it, and it closed over it tirmly.

"I also have a confession to make," he said earnestly. "I thought you were another young fellow like myself, and wishing to relieve the tedium of these long monotonous days struck up a flirration. I intended some day to meet the young man and have it out with him, when you came with your strange confession. In short," he ended abruptly, 'I am Nellie Merton. And you are Ned Clayborn: Come, dry your eyes, Ned. Your Nellie is not heartbroken at the turn about of affairs.

After storing at him in silent amazement for the space of five seconds the truth of the whole matter began to dawn upon my confused brain. My face grew hot with indignation. I snatched my hand from his and sprang to my

"You are a feel," said I to my reflection in the Lttle mirror as I removed my hat.

A year rolled by. I had entirely recovered from my chagrin, and puried in the darkest chamber of my piemory was every thought of the tall young operator at "D station."

One morning I was arranging and copying some night messages when a long shadow fell across my papers. A glauce upward told who it was. The door of that sceret and darkened charaber of my memory flew open, and I knew that the tall young man at "D station" year not as yet quite consigned to oblivion. The contents of the shell had, of course, long been removed, but this fact was not apparent on casual inspection. A Dry Subject—Is it Another Murder?-What Lower Tariff Duties Will Bo tor Women-Wise and Unwise Uni-

The weather continues to be the favorite topic of conversation, but its join the excursion, which will arrive a very dry subject.

It is now talked in Newburgh that the Arab, whose body was found floating in the river near the ferryboat Hart's slip, may have been murdered. The Newburgh papers haven't announced Homer Sarvis's return to his old stamping ground since his uncle ceased to be Marshal of the police force, and there seems to be no special reason for thinking that this strange arab was done to death beyond the fact that when any | Excelsior Hook and Ladder Co. one is found dead in Newburgh the first and natural conclusion is that another murder has been added to that city's long list of unpunished, almost unheeded and quickly forgotten crimes.

tariff in this column during all the months that it has been under consideration in Congress;-it wasn't really necessary for there was enough tariff literature on the editorial page. but now that the tariff is out of politics, perhaps the ladies who read the "Shots" will be interested in knowing the good things that are in store for them, now that we have entered on an era of lower duties. Prices of nearly all kinds of dress goods, millinery goods, laces and other finery will be very materially reduced by the lopping off of customs duties. The heaviest reductions are on the cheaper qualities of goods, such as linens will lower the prices of table linen, towels and handkerchiefs from ten to fifteen per cent. Free wool means very cheap cloaks, dresses, underwear, blankets, carpets and rugs. The duties on dishes, glassware, cutlery, tinware and other articles of household necessity are so reduced that there will be a marked falling off in prices. In fact there is scarcely an article of use or creament that a woman has to buy for herself, her children or her home that will mot, when prices adjust themselves to new conditions, be cheaper than it has been in years.

I., she has challenged Exhorter Remsen to a joint debate, in which she proposes to demolish his proposition that Universalism is of the devil. Such a dehate, no matter how interesting, cannot be other than profitless and in conclusive. A far better and more effective way of dealing with preachers who shock their hearers and the public by describing God as wrathful and vengeful, and as delighting In the eternal punishmeet of many of his creatures, is to do as the Universal Exrension Society did in this city ganization of a Universalist society that may prove the nucleus of a strong, vigorous and useful church.

THE ELECTRIC ROAD.

Rapid Progress Being Made on the Asylum Line-Cars May Run Saturday.

Work on the line of the electric railway to the Asylum is progressing very rapidly. The ties and rails are laid on Wickham avenue nearly to Liberty street and the poles and wires are being put up.

It is confidently expected that cars will be running as far as the corner of Lake avenue by Saturday after-

The remainder of the route to the Asylum is not fully determined on as yet. It may be directly through Lake avenue to Columbia avenue and return by another route, thus making a loop to accommodate the public as much as possible.

THE DERAILING SWITCH AT WORK Overated on Car No. 7 on the Approach of Train 21, This Morning, The derailing switch at the North street crossing of the Erie was operated on car No. 7, this morning, upon the arrival of train 21. An east bound freight train had just passed, and as the car started up to the switch the operator in the tower turned the lever and the car was thrown from the track. It was a practical demonstration of the value of the switch. No damage was done to the car, and no difficulty was experienced in getting it back upon the track.

It seems as if absolute reliance could be placed upon the announcements made by the Adam Forepaugh Shows. Extravagant as they might seem, reports are received through newspaper exchanges that the shows really are all they are advertised.

Commencing first week in Sept. The study of voice development involves a far more important fact than correct singing, requiring a correct use of the lungs and throat, on which, in very many cases, one's health depends. The practice of singing correctly is calculated to bring about the healthy action and development of muscles which otherwise would have lain dormant, and the breathing exercises are of incalculable value to those inclined to pulmonary weakness.
